FROM THE BAY TO LA

Bay Area native, Mike "Profit" Strong is considered to be one of the most multi-faceted entertainers on the circuit. Mike has skillfully used his talents to navigate a growing and successful career as an actor and producer. He stands on the apex of becoming one of the most sought after faces in entertainment. Millions of fans know him as, "Profit the Problem" from Lifetime's hit show, Vivica's Black Magic.

Mike Strong is the name his mother gave him and the name the acting world fell in love with. Mike has made his mark on stages across the country in Je'Caryous Johnson's - Two Can Play That Game, Set It Off Live, and Redemption of a Dogg, starring Snoop Dogg.

Mike is no stranger to the big or little screen nor the theatrical stage. He has been featured on the HBO series, The Leftovers, as well as in films, Chocolate City 2: Vegas, TV Series - Casting the Net, Quarantine, and Wrath of Cain; with the late great Nipset Hu$$le. He has also graced the stages in his current home of Los Angeles in the Don B. Welch productions Love Buddies, Church Secrets, The Bachelorette Party, Life Stories, and Living Isn't Easy Dying Ain't Beautiful.

Mike Strong's resume doesn't merely end with film, television, and theatre. Mike has also been casted for numerous television commercials and some of the world's largest corporations and brands; Nike, Metro PCS, and T-Mobile. His drive and unwavering dedication to becoming the best in his artistry has also landed him roles in music videos with Dr. Dre, Akon, Snoop Dogg, Busta Rhymes, and Britney Spears. With his background and experience, Mike Strong will be an added asset to any companies' brand.
